London is the capital of England and the United Kingdom. It is a modern city with history stretching back to Roman times. With a population of 9 and a half million it is the biggest city in the UK and home to the UK's government. As a major global city it has a strong influence on commerce, finance, fashion, the arts, sport, education, science and communication. The London Underground is the oldest rapid transport system in the world.

London is also home to the Monarch, King Charles the Third. The official London residence is Buckingham Palace. He is King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of the Commonwealth. The Tower of London is where the Crown Jewels are kept and the building has a fantastic history.

The West End is the cultural part of London with theatres, shopping areas and museums. It has 39 theatres the oldest being The Theatre Royal Dury Lane which opened in 1663.

Oxford Street is Europe's busiest shopping street with about 300 shops. It has half a million shoppers visiting daily. There are many museum's in the west end including, the British Museum, the Victoria and Albert (V&A) The Science Museum and the History Museum to name a few.

The City of London known as the square mile is the financial centre of the UK if not the world and contains The Bank Of England. It stands on longitude 0 Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) that means that it overlaps the opening and closing of the financial markets in the east and the US. In 2022 it led the global financial ranking for the second year running. It's home to the very tall London skyscrapers all of which are owned by financial institutions., The Londoners have given them nicknames like the Gherkin, the Cheese Grater, the Stealth Bomber, the Scapple and the Helter-Skelter. If the West End is old London the square mile is Modern London although it has its roots in the past.
